Biography:

Jia-Haur Liang is an artist and writer. He maintains a broad practice and interest in ceramics with a specific focus on sculptural and installed works. He holds BFA and MFA with teaching certificate from National Taiwan University of Arts where he studied crafts and design from 1996 to 2002. Jia-haur and his wife Yi-hui Wang both completed their PhD in 2009 from The University of Sydney, under Mitsuo Shoji's supervising. Currently, Jia-haur is an Associate Professor in Ceramics at the Dept. of Crafts and Design, National Taiwan University of Arts.

Jia-haur's work has been shown in solo and group exhibitions nationally and internationally, most recently having solo shows at Yingge Ceramics Museum in 2012 and New Taipei City Cultural Affairs in 2014. He is a curator of organising committee for the 2013~2016 Contemporary Ceramic Arts in Asia Exhibition which includes about 300 emerging artists from Taiwan, Japan, Korea and China. He is also active in presenting at many conferences, such as 2009 Australian Ceramics Triennial, 2011 International Ceramics Symposium at Sweden, 2011 Big Smoke Conference at Auckland, 2013 Crafts and Design Conference at NTUA, 2014 NCECA at Milwaukee, and 2014 Taiwan Ceramics Biennale.
