

Conga: Imagine Unimaginable

2012

Conga is an imaginative space or place that is located in my heart. I have no idea what is Conga, where it is, how it is like and what is happening in that place. But, I have always kept Conga in the back of my mind. I now intend to initiate a journey to find Conga even though I am clueless about where it is and what it is. If art is about imagining and creating an affection that has not been presented yet rather than representing as someone said, finding Conga will definitely become a crucial means for my art practice.

Installation view

Sound installation

